

MURDER HOLDS HIGH CARNIVAL

Terrible State of Affairs Reported by Chaffee in Philippines.

KILL 16 BOLOMEN

Insurgent Attack on Company E of the Ninth Infantry Was Repulsed.

PRIEST GETS 20 YEARS

Washington, Nov. 18.—Murder seems to be holding high carnival in the Philippines. Judging from a report received today from General Chaffee, during the past month, twelve Filipinos were hanged and ten sent to the penitentiary for life. Twenty more received lighter sentences. One of the murderers ordered the slaughter of five American soldiers, prisoners of war, and another had ordered the slaughter of over one hundred Spanish prisoners.

Rebels Taught a Lesson

Manila, Nov. 18.—The military commission has passed sentence of death upon the presidente, the chief of police, the sergeant of police, and a native priest, who were convicted in the notorious Taytay case of stabbing seven of their countrymen and burying them alive in obedience to orders from insurgent leaders while the town was under an American garrison. There did not at first appear to be evidence of the priest's guilt, but the other men confessed when they were on the brink of the grave. All were defended vigorously by civil counsel. General Chaffee has commuted the death sentence on the priest to a term of twenty years' imprisonment. General Chaffee desires it to be understood, however, that the leniency exercised in the case cannot be known as a precedent, and that no person in the islands can be permitted to plead his office, however sacred and exalted this may be, as protection against crimes committed.

Insurgent Force Repulsed.

Company E of the Ninth Infantry, Captain F. H. Shoefel, was attacked by fifty bolomen and several insurgents armed with rifles at a point six miles from Tarangan, in the island of Samar. The insurgents tried to rush the Americans, but failing to accomplish their purpose, they quickly broke and scattered. The men of the Ninth had a corporal and a scout killed and one private wounded. Sixteen of the bolomen were killed, while the riflesmen escaped.

WILL FIGHT THE RAILWAY COMBINE

Gov. Van Sant of Minnesota, Opposes Great Northern Alliance—He Will Call the Legislature.

St. Paul, Nov. 18.—A fight is on in the northwestern states that may interfere with the plans of the promoters of the Burlington-Northern Pacific-Great Northern deal. Popular sentiment for summary action has developed in this state. The demand upon Governor Van Sant for a special of the legislature to prevent the consolidation is so strong that he will probably issue the call this week. In speaking of the subject he said:

"The great railroad deal in New York having for its object the uniting of the two great competing and parallel lines, the Northern Pacific and Great Northern, is a matter of great public interest. There is justly widespread opposition to it in Minnesota. I do not know that it can be prevented, but it is my intention to ask the attorney general upon his return to bring suit in the name of the state to prevent, if possible, the consolidation of the railroad companies. It is clearly in open violation of the plain intent and purpose of the law. If under existing laws the consolidation cannot be prevented, I feel that I shall be justified in calling an extra session of the legislature to take necessary steps to successfully resist it if it can be accomplished by this means."

SENT HIS LOVE A SWARM OF LETTERS

New York, Nov. 18.—Henry Brown, a good looking young fellow in the insane pavilion at Bellevue hospital awaiting examination. He was arrested on the charge of Winnie Denning her a swamp of love letters. It developed that Brown had sent the girl eighteen hundred letters in five weeks on an average of over fifty daily.

London, Nov. 18.—Marc Eastwick, a Philadelphia young woman, was imprisoned for attempting to swindle a London broker by raising stock certificates.

Portland, Ore., Nov. 18.—Eli Lowenthal, a New York diamond broker, was robbed of ten thousand dollars' worth of diamonds and two hundred dollars in gold last night. No clues.

End of the Naval Inquiry Trial Leaves Him Without Money—Many Offers for Lectures.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16.—The savings of forty-five years of active service in the United States navy have been eaten up by the expenses of the inquiry by which Admiral W. S. Schley hopes to clear his record as a naval officer. Since the final adjournment of the public sessions of the court, the admiral has been staying at the Arlington hotel attempting to extricate himself from the financial tangle caused by the inquiry. He has ended with his accounts and he finds that every cent of the $20,000 which he had expected to leave to his family, in addition to all the prize money which he will get for his part in the Spanish-American war has been spent on the inquiry. Financially the admiral is worse off than he was almost half a century ago, when he entered the naval academy as a cadet. All he has now is his pay as a retired naval officer.

PLOT TO HOLD THE YUKON GOLD REGION

American Miners Said to Be in Conspiracy to Seize Canadian Gold Fields.

San Francisco, Nov. 18.—What is alleged to be a conspiracy having for its object the overthrow of British jurisdiction in the Yukon district and other gold bearing territory of the Northwest within the British North American border is laid bare today in the Call, which publishes a circumstantial story of an attempt to establish a new republic with Dawson as its capital.

While there is no confirmation of the statement, it gives details that will make its verification or denial only a matter of hours. It is claimed that United States Marshal Shouppe, who reached Seattle from Skagway several days ago, only left this post to get to the nearest port from which he could communicate freely with Washington and secure advice from the Secretary of State concerning his position. Marshal Shouppe sailed again for Skagway yesterday afternoon on the revenue cutter Dolphin.

The story claims that arms ammunition and provisions have been smuggled to various points in the territory, and that 5,000 miners, most of them Americans, with headquarters at Skagway are banded together sworn to take part in a general uprising at the moment considered by the ring-leaders to be the most favorable.

THE HOMSTEADER WAS ASTOUNDED

An Arizona Lawyer Says Patent for Land Must Have Signature of President's Wife.

Flagstaff, Ariz., Nov. 18.—A lawyer here was called upon yesterday by a client who desired an abstract to his homestead. There had been no transfer since the homesteader had received his patent for land from the United States. A "patent" is a deed from the government, signed by the president, as the chief executive conveying the title of the land to the homesteader after he has lived upon the land for a period of five years and made the required proof.

The homesteader produced the patent and requested the abstract. The attorney, who has been a member of the Arizona bar for several years, took the patent, and, after reading it over carefully, returned it to the owner with the statement:

"That patent is no good; it is fatally defective."

"The hell it isn't?" gasped the homesteader. "What is the matter with it; there's President Cleveland's signature on it; ain't it?"

"Yes, of course, but President Cleveland is a married man, and under the laws of Arizona it is necessary that Mrs. Cleveland should also sign and have the patent duly acknowledged."

CANAL TREATY IS SIGNED TODAY

The witnesses were the second secretary of the British embassy, chief of diplomatic bureau of the state department and two official messengers.

ALL IS QUIET IN MINING REGIONS

Dixon, Ky., Nov. 18.—There has been no trouble between the miners at Providence since Sunday morning. The sheriff and posse and state troops are now there and the hills and woods around Providence are being scoured. The miners who did the firing on Sunday are believed to have gone to Madisonville, Sturgis and other towns.

New York, Nov. 18.—The annual exhibition of the National horse show of America was opened this morning.

WILL BE A VICTORY FOR SCHLEY; COMPLETE VINDICATION CERTAIN

Information to That Effect Leaks Out at Washington—Opinion of the Admiral Judges Will Be Brief and to the Point.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18.—According to information which has reached the navy department through channels in a measure controlled by the department, the verdict of the Schley court of inquiry will practically be a complete vindication of Admiral Schley. Moreover, instead of a long discursive opinion, covering all of the complex details of the inquiry, the court will hand down a brief and terse verdict, which, it is said, will not contain more than 500 words.

The three admirals comprising the court decided upon this form of verdict very soon after they began their session. Appreciating the desire of the public and everybody concerned for a verdict that would be neither long nor involved, they agreed at the outset that they would be exceedingly sparing of words.

The department anticipated the findings of the court before the inquiry was actually closed by having

TRAVELING MEN HAVE A BLOW-OUT

A Bounteous Supper and an Interesting Program at Odd Fellows' Hall Saturday Night.

The first social gathering of the season of the Janesville Council U. C. T. No. 105, was held Saturday evening at the East Side Odd Fellows hall. The gathering was one of those that traveling men know how to enjoy and a royal good time was had. An inviting supper was first served to the hundred or more people that were present and pronounced perfect by them.

After supper there was an hour of sociability, which the men utilized largely as a smoker, and then Mr. Thoroughgood called the company to order and announced the program of toasts, giving each speaker a good "send-off."

Experiences was the subject given H. L. McNamara and he gave some interesting comparisons between conditions when he first began traveling and now. He told some amusing stories on himself and his brief talk was listened to with pleasure.

"Tales from over the Sea" by Harry Garbutt, who has recently returned from England, were very fine indeed. He gave a brief sketch of his journey and told in a very entertaining manner of some of the wonderful sights which he saw. He found a commercial travelers' union existing in England and a cordial fraternal welcome was given him. He was especially impressed with the expressions of sorrow over President McKinley's death, the draped stars and stripes being displayed everywhere. The steamer on which Mr. Garbutt returned reached New York harbor during the progress of one of the Columbia-Shamrock races.

One of the most enjoyable talks of the evening was given by H. F. Bilks, who responded to the toast "An Old Time Traveling Man" by giving a collection of funny experiences and amusing stories, well told.

Frank F. Nicholson spoke on "Hotels" with an animation and a knowledge that showed him to be well informed on his subject. His descriptions of the hotels seemed to be greatly appreciated by his brothers in the order and his list of the inflections which a traveling man has to suffer from the hotels made a hard luck story indeed.

Speaking as the representative of J. F. Sweeney, M. C. Fish defended the hotel and proceeded to roast the traveling man to a finish, as a "kick" from away back.

The closing number on the program was one of the best, Mrs. J. H. Nicholson telling "The Wife Side of It" in a clever rhyme which disclosed the secret of how the traveling man appears at home and the tale of hardships which he recites to his wife. The wife is not deceived however but knows what a jolly life he leads.

Saturday evening's social was a great success and much credit is due M. C. Fish, Fred Van de Water and W. E. Clinton, the social committee.

Adam Smith a False Prophet

One curious and wholly unexpected result of the Spanish-American war is that since she lost her colonies Spain has begun to develop her mercantile marine in quite a remarkable manner, the capital which formerly found an outlet in the colonies now seeking employment in shipping, says an English magazine. And this new development on the part of Spain hardly accords with Adam Smith's general principle that industries flourish greatly in time of war and decline on the return of peace.

Bore Torture with a Smile.

Bishop Tucker, on the occasion of his recent visit to Toro, ordained a native of Uganda who has worked for five years on the edge of the great pygmy forest. "This remarkable man," says the bishop, "has been beaten, imprisoned, put in the chain gang, had his house burned down and all his property destroyed, and yet he has borne it all with a smile upon his face and a song upon his lips!"

INVENTS A NEW FLYING MACHINE

Gustave Whitehead, a Connecticut Man, Is Backed by Capital to Place It on the Market.

Bridgeport, Conn., Nov. 18.—In six months' time if the plans of the capitalists who are backing the project mature, flying machines will be placed on the market for sale at a minimum cost of $2,000. Gustave Whitehead, the inventor of a flying machine which a few months ago demonstrated its ability to soar through the air, is building a new model in a long shed erected for the special purpose. There are fifteen skilled mechanics employed divided into day and night shifts. No one except the workmen is permitted to enter the building.

Except to admit that a company has been formed for the manufacture of flying machines and that it is intended to place the machines on the market in the early summer for sale, inventor Whitehead refuses to talk. The new calcium carbide motor which Mr. Whitehead has been working upon for a long time is said to be perfect and lessens the weight of the present motor power used in automobiles 75 per cent.

"A flying machine will be put upon the market," said Mr. Whitehead, "that will accommodate six persons and cost about $2,000 when the model on which we are now working is completed. I propose to make good my assertion that I would fly to New York."

MOTHER AND SON COMMIT SUICIDE

They Give Reasons Why There Was No Other Avenue But Death Open to Them.

Minneapolis, Nov. 18.—On a marble slab at the county morgue lies the body of Mrs. Sara Nordelem. On a cot in the city hospital lies her son, Knut Birger Nordelem. His mind is crazed from the effects of morphine, which both had taken with suicidal intent. In his half lucid moments he says he wants to die; that he is too good for this world. His condition is serious and it is highly probable that his wish will be gratified. To prevent his doing himself any harm he has been strapped to his cot.

The mother and son took morphine some time Saturday night at their room, 256 Thirteenth avenue south. They were living with the family of D. B. Johnson. This mother and son found social conditions so contrary to their ideals that they decided to die together. Yesterday morning the two were found in a dazed condition in their room. He sat in a rocking chair by her bed and their hands were clasped. The son was taken to the city hospital and the mother allowed to remain. She died shortly after 9:30 o'clock this morning, and the body was removed to the morgue.

SQUAW RETURNS TO INDIAN WAYS

Daughter of Chief Parker Leaves Her White Husband, Who Drinks and Smokes.

Wichita, Kan., Nov. 18.—A fondness for strong drink and cigarettes caused Joseph Cox to lose his beautiful squaw. She was the daughter of Quannah Jarker, the celebrated Indian chieftain and statesman. About two years ago she married Cox, who is a white settler. She was educated but wore Indian garb. Her husband wanted her to wear the finery of civilization. She said she would if he quit smoking cigarettes. He agreed but one day she caught him whiffing a cigarette and when he returned that night he found her in her native costume squatting on the front porch in Indian fashion. He pleaded forgiveness and finally she consented to sign a new treaty.

About two months ago Cox went home intoxicated. His wife said this was worse than cigarettes. He promised to do better and she again forgave him. Saturday he was both drunk and smoking cigarettes and to add to his crime proceeded to thrash her in white man's fashion. The wife made no complaint, but when her husband left home returned to her tepee and today attended the mission church in a many colored blanket, carrying her papoose on her back, and gave evidences of her intention to return to the life she was taken from.

LOST CHICAGO GIRL SEEN IN JANESVILLE

Chicago, Nov. 18.—Detectives from the Central station were busy all day yesterday running down clues that may lead to the discovery of the whereabouts of Miss Cora Fox, the young cashier of a Palmer house store, who has been missing two weeks. Two theories were presented to the police yesterday and they believe that the missing girl will soon be found.

Word was received that a young woman answering her description had been seen in a hotel in Janesville, Wis., and a telegram was sent to the police there to detain her, but when a call was made at the hotel no such person could be found. There was only one train by which she might have left Janesville in the meantime.

BIG REAL ESTATE BOOM IN NEW YORK

Value of Structures and Public Improvements Is Estimated at Far Beyond $250,000,000 Mark.

New York, Nov. 18.—No western boom town ever enjoyed such a season of real estate speculation as now exists in New York. Where it was thousands in the west it is millions in the east. Investors and speculators from all over the world are pouring millions into the market and fortunes are often made in a day by the judicious handling of choice property.

Since January 1 there have been in round numbers, in Manhattan, the Bronx, and Brooklyn, about 30,000 real estate transfers recorded, representing an aggregate value of upward of $161,000,000. The mortgages recorded during the same period foot up to close $325,000,000. The new buildings being planned and projected since the first of the year number 5,400, and their valuation is given at $16,000,000.

The estimate is made from the licenses taken out at the building department, but allowing for undervaluations a conservative estimate of the value of the buildings begin with the new century in the three larger boroughs of Greater New York would place it close to $160,000,000. In addition to these enormous figures, there are public improvements under way including the Rapid Transit subway, which bring the total of work either under way or projected during 1901 far beyond the $250,000,000.

Sale Nearly Concluded
Copenhagen, Nov. 18.—It is reported here that he deal for the sale of the Danish West Indies to the United States is nearly concluded.

OUTLINE WORK FOR CONGRESS

The Session Will Open at Washington Two Weeks from Today.

BUSINESS ON HAND

Canal, Trusts and Reciprocity the Most Important Legislation in Prospect.

TARIFF IS ALSO UP

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18.—Congress will begin its sessions two weeks from today. The senate is already organized, as it is a continuous body, and Mr. Frye of Maine, the president pro tem, becomes the permanent presiding officer, there now being no vice president. The house will undoubtedly organize without difficulty by the election of Mr. Henderson of Iowa as speaker.

The two houses will be ready for work on the opening day of the session, but there will be little actual work done except in the way of preparation before the holidays. A large proportion of the leading members of both houses have found it convenient to visit Washington since the death of President McKinley and have held conferences with President Roosevelt.

Building the Canal
As a result of these conferences a fairly accurate idea has been gained as to the general outlook for legislation at this session of congress. There is a strong sentiment among both representatives and senators that the inauguration of work on the Nicaragua canal is to be the principal outcome of the legislation of the first session of the Fifty-seventh congress, and unless there is some most unexpected slip in the negotiations the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, permitting the building of the canal, will be ratified by the senate early in the session.

Trusts, Tariff and Reciprocity
There are three topics of legislation which it is asserted by the old hands in congress, will be given careful attention, but in all probability will not be advanced to the stage of actual constructive consideration. These subjects are the control of the trusts, the revision of the tariff, and the creation of genuine reciprocity. The sentiment in congress on the trusts is just about as diverse as it is among the people at large. The members differ honestly as to the extent of the evil, as well as about the remedy to be adopted.

Some Financial Legislation
Somewhat the same situation is involved regarding reciprocity. The general principle of reciprocity is favored, as everyone knows, by the president and by the most of the leaders in congress. There is serious difference of opinion, however, as to the application of this principle.

There is considerable sentiment in favor of some financial legislation, but it will be of the most moderate character. There is no danger of the retirement of greenbacks. From talks with members it can be asserted that nine out of ten of them are opposed to the retirement of greenbacks, at least until something better can be provided to take their places than unsecured bank notes. There are but few members who are in favor of these asset bank notes, but they believe this form of currency should supplement that already in existence, rather than take its place. The average member of congress cannot be made to see how the unsecured note of a private bank can possibly be as good as the unsecured note of the government of the United States.

BEN HUR ENDS ITS LONG RUN.

Eleven Solid Weeks Close at the Illinois Theatre, Chicago.

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 18.—Ben Hur won his chariot race for the last time on the stage of the Illinois theater Saturday evening, and with it he won a real prize of modern life bigger than the one his prowess brought him in his play world. Never before has one play in a continuous presentation scored such a triumph in Chicago. Eleven solid weeks, eighty-nine performances, 135,000 spectators and greater than all, $175,000 taken in at the box office, these were the accomplishments of the season. There were nine performances during the week just closed, including an extra matinee Thursday afternoon. The two last houses afternoons and evening brought out more standees than the management has permitted in the house at any time before. And the extra matinee, though announced for the first time last Sunday, had all its tickets sold by Monday evening.

PLAN FOR PRESIDENT'S VISIT

Charleston Exhibition Authorities to Entertain Roosevelt

Charleston, S. C., Nov. 18.—The formal opening of the exposition will take place on Monday, Dec. 2. President Roosevelt has accepted an invitation to visit the exposition with his cabinet on February 12. Lincoln's birthday and it is hoped that he will be able to remain several days, a number of entertainments having been projected in his honor, among them a deer hunt on the private grounds of President Wagener of the exposition company.

FURROWS ON THE FARM.

There is no use of a farmer doing any harder work than will bring about the results desired. Labor is a necessity. There is room for excellent tillage. This can be done with labor of body or mind, or both. We all want a living and a competence for sickness and old age. Labor conducted with reasonable bounds is a pleasure to the laborer. We are so constructed that we must have seasons of activity and repose, regular exercise and regular rest. It is a mistake to think the idle are always happy. How hard a farmer should or must work depends upon his farm, family, circumstances, and the standard of living he has mapped out for himself.

The bane of the renting system is the one year renter, the man who skips from place to place, and from farm to farm, skimming the cream off of land and leaving a legacy of weeds in his wake. A farm to do its best should be worked as no one year man can afford to work it. The one year renter knows this as well as anybody, but his tenure is such that he can ill afford to do them. For the best results the farm should be rented for a series of years. Then the owner should make certain requirements and stock should be kept by the tenant.

It is all right to feed the chicken on table scraps but the chicken should not be fed on "table scraps" between father and mother. This is the wrong kind of food for children. It has a tendency to make them unbecomingly fat and makes good business for courts, and helps to fill our work houses.

We have often heard of very valuable loads of farm produce drawn by one pair of horses, such as fifty bushels of clover seed sold at $8 per bushel, and 2,500 pounds of wool sold at twenty-six cents per pound, but it remains for a Texas man to get $1,000 worth of tomatoes from one acre of ground. It may require extensive farming to get this amount of value from one acre of ground, but it would appear that one could afford to be pretty expensive for that amount of money.

Hog killing time is approaching. This job is made pleasant and ended sooner when one is well prepared for it. Get everything in readiness beforehand and the work is made easy. One needs plenty of help and plenty of tools to work with. Many farmers have to borrow knives, kettles, ropes, sausage grinder and about everything before this job can be performed. Much valuable time is consumed in going after these things and returning them, if it is ever done.

It never makes the implement dealer shed tears when he sees a man who falls to shed his tools. Let the man shed his coat and go to work to shed his tools, if that has been neglected.

An illustration in a western farm paper shows a condition that would happen if farmers were to go on strike and withhold their products for a period of time. The farmer and his family are pictured happy and contented, surrounded with plenty of this world's goods, being besieged by a horde of millionaires with bags of money offering almost any price for something to eat. Whoever controls a nation's food controls the nation. If any man or set of men control all the food in the world, it means the farmers have the world by the tail, and the tail not greased, either. While it would appear that farmers could do this thing, it is hardly probable they ever will. It is a trust that is too gigantic to organize. Grasping opportunities amount to but very little if one does not use them after grasping them. It does no good to stand around and hold on to them. Grasp them and put them to avail, is the way to get god out of them.

The late fine weather recalls years that have flown. Most of us can look back and see at some time when the weather conditions were a little out of the ordinary. One year the writer plowed a seventeen acre field after all the corn had been husked, finishing about a day or two before Christmas. The winter wheat made such growth that it was thought at one time that it would joint. To prevent it the sheep were turned in on it to eat it off. It was a common thing to see many a corn husker carrying a jug of water with him, as there was not enough of cold weather to get up a "hundred bushel" motion. Perhaps many readers can remember that year. To offset the fine weather another year a severe freeze came before any farmers had thought of picking winter apples and a great deal of the crop was ruined by it. To be able to meet these conditions at all times requires watchfulness and genius.

There are a great many farmers who have tried renting their surplus land to those who can work it and others have tried hiring plenty of farm help to farm such lands. Again there are those who desire to make life a little easier and they are on a standstill whether to rent or hire.

Some people can read the smoke as it curls up out of their chimney tops. If it goes straight up they can see a future in it, if it wavers some other feature of happenings will come and if it gathers around and falls to the ground we can look for something else. Smoke is very often quite significant and it is altogether probable that the smoker can get some consolation out of the smoke that ensues from his pipe. If he smokes in the barn, it means loss, if he smokes in the house it is a sign of a stormy time and if he smokes a great deal it means more than a waste of time and money. Smoking seems to be good for meat, the tooth-ache and to rob bees of honey. There is really more in smoke than we are liable to give credit. Some fellows smoke if the fall to perform a certain thing and others will have to smoke if they do.

In order to keep the brood sow in the best of condition she must have exercise. It will be good for her and for her unborn litter. When the sow is in good health there is rarely ever any trouble at farrowing time. If the brood sow is in poor health there will be all sorts of troubles.

One of the first requisites of a good crop of any kind of grain is good seed. No one will question this fact. This being true, it is wonderful at the number of people who flagrantly ignore this plain fact by a failure to select good seed. It is a part of progress to select the best seed of all kinds.

Farm machinery has possibilities that have not been realized. Its introduction should inspire better methods of farming, larger yields and greater home comforts. It has been the means of causing very inferior methods on the part of some. The value of it is innumerable, but it is questionable whether its full value has been reached.

Plot to Hold Yukon. San Francisco, Nov. 13.—What is alleged to be a conspiracy having for its object the overthrow of British jurisdiction in the Yukon district and other gold-bearing territory of the Northwest within the British North American border is laid bare today in the Call, which publishes a circumstantial story of an attempt to establish a new republic with Dawson as its capital.

THE OLD WAY

Of Treating Stomach Trouble and Indigestion a Barbarous and useless One

We say the old way, but really it is the common and usual one at the present time and many dyspeptics and physicians as well, consider the first step in attempting to cure indigestion is to diet, either by selecting certain food and rejecting others or to greatly diminish the quantity of food usually taken.

In other words, the starvation plan is supposed by many to be the first essential in the cure of weak digestion.

The almost certain failure of the starvation cure for stomach trouble has been proven time and again, but still the usual advice, when dyspepsia makes its appearance, is a course of dieting.

All this is radically wrong. It is foolish and unscientific to recommend dieting or starvation to a person suffering from dyspepsia because indigestion itself starves every organ and every nerve fibre in the body.

What is needed is abundant nutrition, not less, and this means plenty of good, wholesome, well-cooked food and some natural digestive to assist the weak stomach to digest it.

That is exactly the purpose for which Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are adapted and this is the way they cure the worst cases of stomach trouble.

The patient eats plenty of wholesome food, and Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets digest it for him.

And this is in accordance with nature and common sense because in this way the whole system is nourished and the overworked stomach rested, because the tablets will digest the food, whether the stomach works or not.

One of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will digest 1899 grains of meat, eggs and similar food.

Any druggist will tell you that Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is a remedy of extraordinary value and probably is the purest and safest remedy for stomach troubles.

No person suffering from poor digestion and lack of appetite can fail to be immediately and permanently benefited if they would make it a practice to take one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after each meal.

JANESVILLE BOY AT MINNEAPOLIS

C. D. Evans of Janesville, Wis., who has entertained thousands on the streets of Minneapolis during the past four weeks with an instrument of his own invention, playing the five, bass drum and cymbals at one time is as pleasing a conversationalist as he is a clever musician.

Mr. Evans has been blind since childhood. For several years he was a piano tuner until his nerves gave out. Since then he has pleased and instructed multitudes throughout the country. His season is almost ended. During the winter he will perfect the instrument which he uses and for plans for the summer campaign. He is a cousin of Mrs. H. H. Bell of this city, and a brother of Mrs. Ellery Saxe whose husband was an engineer killed in the Milwaukee wreck at Eggleston a short time ago.

Mr. Evans' career is interesting in the extreme. He is a graduate of the Wisconsin School for the Blind, at Janesville, where he studied the violin in nine years. He also studied under Professor Schoenfeldt of Milwaukee, and Professor G. G. G. of Philadelphia. Since 1893 he has been engaged in perfecting his contrivance which furnishes so much entertainment, and believes that room for improvement remains.

Mr. Evans has a barytone voice which has received some cultivation and sings with guitar accompaniment in addition to playing violin solos. The condition in connection with his performances that Mr. Evans regrets is that he cannot give his concerts in a regular business like manner and sell tickets. He is entirely out of the organ grinding class. His claim is that he gives a full equivalent for all the money he receives. The matter of recompense lies wholly with his auditors. Mr. Evans says he does not own the street and anyone is free to listen with or without pay if he wishes. —In a sense he is preaching, though not a preacher. He reaches the drinking and carousing class with his simple songs in a way that no one else does. —Minneapolis Journal.

SAD ENDING OF A CELEBRATION

William Sanford Suddenly Expires After Playing "Home, Sweet Home" on His Violin.

Saturday night at the end of a day's festivities and just as the last sweet notes of "Home Sweet Home" were dying away on the violin he was playing, William Sanford, seventy-six years of age, slipped from his chair to the floor, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Soverhill, and by the time medical assistance arrived was beyond all earthly help. Mr. Sanford was one of the guests at his sister's golden wedding Saturday and during the day had complained of not feeling well. Saturday night after supper Mrs. Soverhill asked him to play on the violin for the benefit of the grandchildren and he consented. He had just about completed playing "Home Sweet Home" when the end came.

The physicians who were called to attend him pronounced his death as being caused by a clot of blood forming at the base of the brain.

Deceased was past seventy-six years of age, his seventy-sixth birthday having been in February last. He was born in Newark, Wayne county, New York, and resided there until he reached his middle life, removing here some years ago from Michigan. He has resided in Janesville for the past five years and was well known and most highly respected. Mr. Sanford had been a married man but two years before coming here buried his wife.

The remains will be taken to Michigan for burial by the side of his deceased wife.

GOOD MORTGAGES ARE IN DEMAND

A. C. Tisdelle of Chicago reports that the mortgage business for the week ending November 9th, 1901, has been exceptionally brisk both in new mortgages and building loans, the following is a schedule taken from the records of mortgages recorded during the last week as follows:

5 mortgages at 7 per cent. aggregating $ 7,750	1 mortgage at 6 1/2 " aggregating 1,200
1 mortgage at 6 " aggregating 470,070	24 mortgages at 5 1/2 " aggregating 65,000
24 mortgages at 5 1/2 " aggregating 65,000	8 mortgages at 5 " aggregating 305,284
6 mortgages at 4 1/2 " aggregating 89,000	2 mortgages at 4 " aggregating 100,000

This shows an increase over the corresponding week of last year of $356,363.00. Mr. Tisdelle regards this as being quite encouraging for this season of the year. Many owners of Chicago income real estate are raising their rents at real good advantage, thus making the mortgages more secure because the greater the income the better the mortgage. Six per cent. seems to be the prevailing rate of interest at present, as out of 259 mortgages 140 of them draw 6 per cent and are made from 3 to 5 years. Only 1 mortgage at 6 1/4 per cent for $1,200.00, which is a very odd rate, and the principal is payable monthly. The best mortgages of today run in amounts of $500 to $5,000. They seem to be the safest loans to take and are in large demand at all times by farmers, merchants and bankers.

One manufacturer in the east has invested in Chicago through his broker, Mr. A. C. Tisdelle of 145 La Salle street over $200,000 in first mortgages and states that good Chicago mortgages are good enough for him.

Travelers May Move Headquarters

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 18.—At a meeting of the national officers of the Travelers' Protective Association of America, held here, the question of changing the place for the national meeting of the organization from Portland, Oregon, to a city in the central west was discussed, but no definite decision was reached. A general manager for the organization has been appointed by the newly elected officers, and there is a sentiment in the Indiana division against this.

Tampa Strike Will Be Watched

Tampa, Fla., Nov. 18.—News has been received from Washington that the government, through the treasury department, will investigate the alleged lawlessness at Key West and protect cigarmakers coming to Tampa. The Tampa Board of Trade presented the matter to the Washington officials, hence this action. Havana's big labor organization, Laviga, has pronounced the Tampa strike off, thus inflicting a great blow on the Resistencia officers.

SALOONS HAVE NURSERIES

Startling Statement Made at W. C. T. U. Convention.

PLAYROOMS FOR CHILDREN.

Alcohol Candy Given to the Little Ones. Says Mrs. Bullock of New York—About 200,000 Children Arrested Annually in United States.

Fort Worth, Texas, Nov. 18.—In a talk on "Purity," before the National W. C. T. U. convention here, Mrs. Helen L. Bullock of New York said that 200,000 children are arrested every year in the United States. She made the surprising statement that there are in Chicago on one street twenty saloons that have playrooms for children, fitted up with toys and everything tending to child's amusement and where a child is also served with alcohol candy and in many instances drink is furnished. Mrs. Minnie Barker Horning of Illinois reported progress as to press work. Four hundred and seventy-five thousand columns of temperance news are reported this year, as compared with 30,000 last year.

The following telegram was ordered sent to President Roosevelt:

"The National Woman's Christian Temperance Union in convention assembled at Fort Worth, Texas, representing 300,000 women of the United States, sends greetings with an appreciation of the responsibilities that have come upon you. Be assured of our prayers to aid you in your work for righteousness."

A telegram from the Canadian Woman's Christian Temperance Union in session was read and also a message from Mrs. Frances J. Barnes and a cablegram from Lady Henry Somerset of England, conveying cordial greetings.

President Lillian M. N. Stevens of Maine spoke as follows: "Our is a land and ours is a nation where there should be no hatred of rule; where there should be no such experiences as have come to us thrice within four decades. One of the chief sources of anarchy in our country is without doubt the un-American liquor business, for the saloons are the schools of lawlessness. Because we are patriots, if for no other reason, we should work for the overthrow of the saloon and the saloon power and for the extermination of the liquor traffic. While the year has had its sorrows and disappointments, it also has had its joys and its victories. Among the temperance victories of the past year we gratefully record the action of the senate in ratifying treaty for the protection of the African races, and we are reliably told that for twenty months neither Boers nor English in South Africa have allowed liquors to officers or men. The good effect of England's policy in discouraging the use of liquor in the army is being felt, and we have reason to believe that the soldier boys do not feel defrauded. The French minister of war has sent a message to every commandant of an army corps prohibiting the sale of liquor with an alcoholic basis in barracks, canteen, in camp, or field, and, moreover, provision is made for lectures before the troops on the effects and dangers of alcoholism. Even Russia has a governmental commission which recommends the prohibition of liquor selling in army canteens. Austria and Germany are endeavoring to strengthen the efficiency of their army by discouraging the use of alcoholics. In view of all this and much more, it is not at all strange that the congress of the United States decided that the army saloon in this country must be abolished. But, evidently, there is a concerted plan on the part of the anti-temperance forces to try to prove that the law is productive of evil results, an increase of drunkenness, desertions, riots, etc., and testimony galore to this end is being gathered and given to the public. Meanwhile the temperance societies, ministers' associations, and others are likewise securing testimony of an entirely opposite character. We must make our strongest protest in strongest form against state-regulated vice in the possessions of the United States. There is a rapidly increasing sentiment against the use of the cigarette. Forty-two states and the District of Columbia now have laws forbidding the sale of cigarettes or tobacco to minors."

The corresponding secretary's report showed that literature to the amount of 5,000,000 pages has been distributed this year and that the correspondence has included Cuba, Porto Rico, Mexico and Hawaii. Nineteen states have received assistance from the Francis Willard fund. The treasurer's report shows expenses to be $2,000 less than ten years ago, while the results obtained are incomparably greater. Receipts for the year 1900 were $24,452, with expenses of $22,916.

Sunday was presented the great religious feature of the W. C. T. U. Thirty-four of these consecrated women occupied as many pulpits in different churches in this city, preaching in most instances morning and evening. The topics covered were the whole common ground of religious thought of the world.

Equipment to Cost $7,000,000. Baltimore, Nov. 18.—The Baltimore and Ohio railroad will place orders for the following equipment for delivery in 1902: Fifty locomotives, thirty-eight passenger equipment cars and 6,000 freight equipment cars. The cost will approximate $7,000,000. The rail order for 1902 is for 55,000 tons.

TWO OFFICERS ARE SLAIN.

Their Bodies Found in Ruins of Burned House.

Oxford, Miss., Nov. 18.—The charred bones of two deputy United States marshals were found in the ashes of a house occupied by William Matthis, an alleged counterfeiter and moonshiner, who lived twelve miles southeast of this place. Matthis, who was reputed a desperate man, evidently has fled, and this evening a posse of forty men armed with Winchesters is running him down. John A. Montgomery and Hugh Montgomery, the one of Oxford and the other of Pontotoc, are the officers who lost their lives through what is believed to have been Matthis' treachery. The horse ridden by Hugh Montgomery was found tied to a post in front of the home of Curdy Hall, a neighbor of Matthis. The blackened bones of two human beings were later found in the ruins of the desperado's house, and it is supposed that Matthis, after seeing his pursuers were no longer living, seized one of the horses and made his escape. The Montgomerys were seeking to arrest Matthis on charges of killing a negro a month ago and the illicit distilling of whisky.

Gold Is Wasted by Tons.

Denver, Col., Nov. 18.—A newly discovered process for extracting gold from ore publicly announced here affirms that the present system causes the loss of about 97 per cent of the gold which might be extracted. The scheme would not attract the attention it has done in the city were it not for the fact that Willard Teller, brother of United States Senator Teller and Colorado's greatest expert, has announced himself satisfied that the process is scientific and feasible for the treatment of large bodies of ore. The invention is called the Wynn process after Professor Wynn, the alleged discoverer. Briefly, it consists of pulverizing the ore, treating it in a tank with chemicals and then extracting the gold by fire. In all chemical processes heretofore invented the gold is precipitated or held in solution until extracted by other acids. In the Wynn process the gold rises with other matter as a scum.

Kill a Bank Robber.

Spencer, Iowa, Nov. 18.—After a desperate fight between bank robbers and a posse of citizens a capture was effected which it is believed will put an end to the wholesale robbing of banks in Iowa. One robber was killed and two were arrested. The man who is dead was shot in the fight with citizens. The two others were caught as the result of a long chase. Previous to the capture the robbers wounded C. J. Lodine, marshal of Albert City where the battle took place, as well as John Lundblad, a member of the citizens' posse. A telephone girl gave the officials the "tip" that led them to surround the robbers after they had blown the safe in the bank of Greenville, a few miles south of this place, wrecked the building with nitroglycerin and escaped with $1,000. Lundblad died later.

Bad Wreck at St. Charles.

St. Charles, Ill., Nov. 18.—One passenger was killed and five injured in a wreck that occurred on the Chicago Great Western railway two miles west of here. The east-bound milk train standing at the milk platform was run into by the limited east-bound passenger train, completely telescoping the rear coach. The wreck caught fire at once and the charred remains of Rose Root of Sycamore, Ill., were taken from the debris. James Murphy was fatally injured and was sent to a hospital in Chicago. Injuries to the others were slight. The engineer and fireman of the passenger train were slightly injured by jumping from their engine.

Will Not Stop Logging.

Washburn, Wis., Nov. 18.—State Senator O'Neill emphatically denies the published report emanating from Ashland that he had ordered all logging operations suspended on the Bad river Indian reservation because of the prevalence of smallpox. "The report that we will shut down operations at Olanah on account of smallpox," said Mr. O'Neill, "is ridiculous. There is no smallpox in the camps and the number of cases in the village has been reduced to sixteen. The Stearns Lumber company has 500 men at work on Bad river reservation and logging operations have not been interfered with in the slightest degree."

Find Asphalt in Michigan.

Escanaba, Mich., Nov. 18.—The discovery of beds of live asphalt near Rapid river at the head of Little Bay de Noquette, in this county, by experts employed by the Michigan Oil and Improvement Company, which is prospecting there for oil, has caused a sensation in his vicinity. Professor F. Ruschaupt of Milwaukee, who has analyzed the first product, found by C. O. Phelps of Green Bay, pronounces it to be composed of forty parts of pure asphaltum, equal in quality to the famous Trinidad product. He values the product, at $20 per barrel.

Telegraphic Cliffs.

Norwegian steamship Ella lost in a storm off the Newfoundland coast, its crew of twenty-five men perishing. Other disasters at sea reported.

Meteor fell into a lake of oil near Tulsa, I. T., and set it on fire.

Young woman at Hartford City, Ind., found dead in an orchard and the cause is a mystery.

Peace party in England growing rapidly. Powerful interests bringing pressure to bear on the Cabinet to end the Boer war.

Six drunken men rode their horses into an Oklahoma school and killed a girl. May be lynched.

Madman 'Amuck' on Train.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 18.—Passengers on the Big Four Southwestern Limited, which reached this city from Cleveland at 11:30 o'clock a. m., were terrorized by an insane man who boarded the train a few miles out of Cleveland and became violent. Conductor S. F. Engle of 2838 Hope street and several of the train crew attempted in vain to quiet him. Passengers left the car, going into other coaches, demanding that the door be locked so that the maniac could not enter. A porter and a brakeman were put in charge of the man and did what they could to prevent him from demolishing the furniture. He was removed from the train by force at Union City, and given over to the city marshal.

Safe Blowers Driven Off.

Wellington, Kan., Nov. 18.—Safe blowers raided Milan, a small town sixteen miles west of here, early in the morning and after entering every store of importance, among them the one in which the postoffice is located, wrecked the safe and fixtures of the Milan State bank with dynamite. Two doors were blown off the safe, but the third, on which was the time lock, resisted the force of the explosives and a score of men who had been aroused by the noise rushed into the streets with shotguns and drove the robbers away before they had secured much plunder.

Said Pasha Is Grand Vizier.

Constantinople, Nov. 18.—Said Pasha, former grand vizier, has been appointed grand vizier in succession to the late Halil Rifat Pasha.

Man known to have made threats against Miss Renner suspected of knowing of the Evansville murders.

WISCONSIN WEATHER FORECAST

WHOSE GOVERNOR IS HE?

There are a few papers around the state, including the "organs" of the administration, that assume the responsibility of being press censors. They not only criticize the republican papers who do not agree with them, but they go for the democratic press as though it had no right to exist.

If the attitude of self-righteous publishers was not ridiculous, it would be amusing in the extreme. It is generally supposed that the governor of a state is the chief executive of all the people. While he is elected as a partisan by the party that is numerically the strongest, he is supposed to pass from the realm of partisanship, to the higher plane of statesmanship, when he takes the oath of office.

The publishers of democratic papers in the state, as well as individual members of the party, sacrificed neither rights nor citizenship when Governor La Follette was elected. They have the same right to commend or criticize his policy, or his public acts as any other class of citizens.

The trouble with the governor is that he arrogates to himself personal popularity, and is swelled out of shape with the notion that his name at the head of the republican ticket, gave the party a majority that it would not otherwise have received.

This argument has been advanced by some of his admirers, and it falls so flat that it is not worthy of notice. Governor La Follette was nominated in the interests of harmony, pure and simple. His personal following was no stronger in 1900 than in 1898, and it was lighter than two years previous.

He has less numerical strength in the state today than at time in his history and deprived of the prestige of office, he could not carry a county in the state for renomination. He has made no converts since his promotion to the office of chief executive, but on the other hand he has repelled many men who have been old time supporters.

The people have come to realize that he is a dangerous man for governor, because of his theoretical and populist tendencies, and public confidence has been destroyed for the same reasons that placed the seal of disapproval upon the public life of the late ex-Governor Pingree of Michigan.

The free silver wing of the democratic party is with him because of its orphanage and lack of more inviting shelter. He possesses unblemished character, a strong personality, and marked ability in some directions, offset by a stubbornness and sublime egotism that has had no parallel in the history of Wisconsin governors.

The state is entitled to a governor that is not only unapproachable, but who possesses the common sense to treat fairly and considerately every citizen and every class of citizens within its borders.

If the republican party is to remain in power it is entitled to a man who will own allegiance to the party, discouraging factional strife, and promoting harmony, as occasion may present. A man who will be the governor in fact as well as in name.

It is idle to talk about the issue of the next campaign, being a Spooner issue. Senator Spooner will succeed himself if he so desires, and there is no power in the state that can prevent it.

The issue of the campaign will be republicanism, pure and simple, so far as the republican party is concerned. It will not tolerate theories or theoretical reform, if Gov. La Follette is to succeed himself it will be necessary for him to establish an era of reform in his own political household.

The next governor of the state must be an approachable governor, and not the idol of a little coterie of shouters and favorites. Governor La Follette is good enough as a man, but unless he reforms he is not good enough as a leader to command the respect and support of a winning constituency.

REFLECTING HONOR.

Whatever honors Senator Spooner may win as a member of the highest legislative body in the world are reflected in some degree on the republican party in Wisconsin that has twice elected him to the senate without personal solicitation on his part. The names of Timothy O. Howe and Matt H. Carpenter have become household words in this state. When those names are spoken by the men of the present generation it is in a tone which implies that "there were giants in those days." It is pleasant to know that Senator Spooner is already regarded as a worthy successor of such men and that the people of Wisconsin will not wait until he has passed out of public life before they recognize his worth.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Senator Spooner, as a level headed statesman, occupies an enviable position in the council of nations. It is frequently said, and with a great deal of truth that a man is not without honor, save in his own country. That familiarity sometimes develops a lack of appreciation.

This is true in a sense concerning Senator Spooner in his own state. While he has a host of friends and a contingency strong enough to keep him in the senate, he also has opposition, but when analyzed, his opponents are found to be largely political foes, prompted by personal ambition. The nation has confidence in Senator Spooner, and the state would be justly and severely criticised if it failed to return him to the senate. His influence is not bounded by state lines. Such men are needed at the seat of government, and Wisconsin is fortunate in having a John C. Spooner.

Sarah Grand, author of "The Heavenly Twins," is authority for the statement that men are happier than women. Sarah probably knows. There are some women who would drive a man to drink and still would not be happy. If contentment is happiness, Sarah is undoubtedly correct.

Milwaukee beer gardens are struggling with a new device for tapping a keg. Some enterprising Yankee has discovered that there is too much beer and too little foam for a temperance drink, and in the interests of reform, has induced the city to adopt a prohibition faucet, which reduces the beer to foam and makes it as harmless as rain water.

Senator Spooner will have plenty of good company in his position on the ship subsidy bill. While the east may favor the measure, the west is opposed to it, and will continue to be until some better argument is produced than has yet been presented.

The Pan-American panned out a loss of $3,200,000. Buffalo claims to be happy in spite of financial failure. This should be an incentive for Charleston and St. Louis.

If Pat Crowe has been arrested, he will have no trouble in disclaiming identity. Pat is about as uncertain as the Hibernian flea.

The Marinette Star appears to lack the editorial equipment of a good pair of shears even. Uncle Ike should get his boys together and give them a few lessons.

The Chicago American is getting a great deal of free advertising through Judge Haney's court. If the judge succeeds in collecting a good fine from the proprietors it will be time well spent.

It may be a little late in the season to raise much of a crop, and the seeds of discord have not only sprouted, but the plants seem to be flourishing, yet a little harmony might take root if properly administered. It all depends on the seed and the sower.

PRESS COMMENT.

Oshkosh Northwestern: One of the headlines recently noted in the Milwaukee Sentinel contained the startling intelligence "Troubles in Path of League," but just as one prepared to read a sensational piece of political news, the fact was disclosed that it referred to the American Baseball league.

We are paying a hundred thousand dollars to ransom a missionary who is over in Bulgaria teaching the heathen; yet a religious meeting of black people was broken up in Louisiana and eleven people killed. Why not open a mission in Louisiana?—Superior Leader.

Stoughton Hub: If the members of the Wisconsin senate had it to do over again they might prove a bit bally in confirming the governor's appointment of Nils P. Haugen as tax commissioner. They did it once for harmony and got fooled.

Jefferson County Union: A Milwaukee preacher says that hereafter the pulpit will demand that "a little of the Sunday goodness be spread over the other six days of the week, and not left in a heap on the seventh."

Stoughton Hub:—"If the railroad companies saw fit to give Mr. La Follette the use of a special train for a very low price, that's their business," is the plaintive wail from the half-bred camp. All right. If the express companies saw fit to tote Gov. Scofield's cow from Oconto to Madison for nothing, whose business is that?

A GOOD SUGGESTION. The Fond du Lac Reporter says that Gov. La Follette did not violate any law of the state when he used the special train last fall at a nominal cost for campaigning because he was not at the time an officer of the state, but a private citizen. The Appleton Post says that the railroads were equally guilty of violating the law. How would it do for Attorney General Hicks to start proceedings against both Chairman Bryant and one of the railroads, to make a test case of the matter, and see if they were guilty of disobedience of a criminal statute of the state? Will Gov. La Follette as a reformer approve of the plan?—Marinette Eagle.

ADMIRAL NELSON.

DEEDS AND SAYINGS OF ENGLAND'S FAMOUS SAILOR.

Traits of the Boy and Man—His Visit to American Waters in 1780—Victories Won by Disobeying Orders—Death in Battle.

(Copyright, 1901, by G. L. Kilmer.)

As a boy and man, Nelson distinguished himself in naval warfare during the eighteenth century and the addition of brilliant names to the list of fighting seamen, Lord Nelson, who has been in his grave almost a hundred years, remains an ideal among fleet commanders. One trait distinguished him as a boy and made his success as a man. That was boldness; not reckless daring by any means, but daring allied to a shrewdness which detected the very moment when caution should be thrown to the winds.

Two incidents of Nelson's life, one of his boyhood and the other of his manhood, show that with him boldness was based on a high motive and never indulged in a spirit of daredevilry. When at school, his mates planned a raid upon a pear tree which belonged to one of the faculty and stood just beyond the inclosure. At the last moment the leaders all backed out, and little Horatio volunteered to be slung in a rope from a high window into the pear tree and hauled back with his plunder. He carried through the difficult feat and handed all the pears over to his comrades. He wouldn't eat any and said that he only got them because the others were afraid to get what they coveted so greedily. It was the deed which told him and not the personal gain nor the risk. And so, after telling his ship commanders his plan for the great battle of the Nile, one of them cried in glee, "If we succeed, what will the world say?"

"There is no 'if' about it," said Nelson. "We shall succeed, but who will live to tell the story is another question."

Nelson battled with adversity very young. He was a frail lad and always a sufferer. At twelve years of age his father, no longer able to care for him, sent him to an uncle who was captain of one of the king's ships.

"What has little Horatio done," said the old sea dog, "that he, being so weak, should be sent to rough it at sea? But let him come, and if a common ball takes off his head he will at least be provided for."

The ball came along in time, but not until the name of Nelson and the name of England were interchangeable as symbols of glory.

Nelson sailed into New York harbor as captain of his first ship when he was twenty-two years old. A description of him then recalls Napoleon Bonaparte in his salad days. Says an annalist of the time, Prince William Henry, afterward William IV, of England: "I was then a midshipman on board the Harlequin, lying in the Narrows off Staten Island, and had the watch on deck when Captain Nelson of the Albemarle came in his barge alongside, the merest boy captain I ever beheld, and his dress was worthy of attention. He had on a full laced uniform; his hair, unpowdered, was in a stiff Hessian tail of extraordinary length; the old fashioned flaps of his waistcoat added to the general quaintness of his figure and produced an appearance which particularly attracted my notice, for I have never seen anything like it before, nor could I imagine who he was or what he came about. My doubts were, however, removed when Lord Hood introduced me to him. There was something irresistibly pleasing in his address and conversation, an enthusiasm when speaking on professional subjects that showed he was no common being." Other accounts of the time sum up Nelson's general appearance as that of a British seaman, with a "shock head," diminutive figure and delicate health, negligent in dress, but having a charm that was irresistible when he wished to please.

Nelson saw that Hood was a fighting admiral and joined his fleet, making his first great stroke at the battle of Cape St. Vincent, where, with his ship, the Captain, he disobeyed orders and alone attacked a division of the Spanish fleet in the flank. The admiral saw that this was a bold move and ordered other captains to do the same. Nelson's ship was shot to pieces, but he boarded and captured a Spaniard and kept on fighting. Hood said to him after the victory, "You formed the plan of attack, and the rest of us were only accessories in the ruin of the dons." Four years later Nelson again disobeyed orders, and after that there were no orders but Nelson's own, for he became the master sailor of England and the world. The second occasion of disobedience was at Copenhagen, and Nelson said of it on the spot: "Well, I have fought contrary to orders, and I shall perhaps be hanged. Never mind, let them."

When Nelson disobeyed the admiral at Copenhagen, his division of the fleet was getting the worst of it under the Danish guns. A signal was hoisted on the flagship to leave off action and retreat. "Leave off action," said Nelson bitterly, "now d—n me if I do!" Turning to the captain of his flagship, he told him to keep his own signal for close action flying and put a telescope to his eye, resting it on the stump of an arm shot away in battle. "You know, Foley," said he, "that I have only one eye and have a right to be blind sometimes." With the glass to the blind eye, another souvenir of battle, he exclaimed: "I really do not see the signal. D—n the signal, anyway! Keep mine for close action flying. Yes, and it is to the mast. That's the way! I answer signals to 'leave off action.'" At the end of one hour more fighting he was dictating terms to the vanquished sailor, Prince of Denmark.

No, the trade of war was not one of unalloyed glory for Horatio Nelson. Not only was he shot to pieces in battle, but all his life he suffered keenly from bodily weakness aggravated by unhealthy climate and fare on shipboard. In one battle he contracted a blood disease by taking the rammer from the hands of a dying gunner and serving the shots himself. In spite of his distressing condition, however, he generally maintained a sweetness of temper and at times under the most vexing circumstances gave way to humor, as at Copenhagen. Even in his last hour at Trafalgar, when word was brought to him that fourteen of the allied ships had been captured, he said, "That is well, but I bargained for twenty." This referred to a conversation before the battle began in which he said that he would take it as a victory if he got twenty of the enemy's vessels. The last scene on the deck of the Victory was heartrending in its tenderness and pathos. Nelson was courageous to the last, thoughtful and calm. He knew that it was death, and after he became unconscious the lips repeated again and again the last thought of his mind: "Now I am satisfied. Thank God, I have done my duty!" The tragic story in the rugged logbook of the flagship reads, "Partial firing continued until 4:30, when, a victory having been reported to Viscount Nelson, K. B., he died of his wound."

The noted signal at Trafalgar was not struck at white heat, like most of Nelson's noted expressions. He wrote, "Nelson confides that every man will do his duty." An officer suggested that the appeal should be in the name of England, and Nelson assented to the change. The signal officer for convenience in transmitting made it "England expects that every man will do his duty."

Nelson's bluntness was displayed often in the heat of action. At Trafalgar the captain of the flagship told him at one stage that he could not take the Victory through the enemy's line of battle without running into one of three allied ships standing across the course. "I cannot help it," said the admiral. "Go on board which you please. Take your choice."

At another time, when asked for directions how to fight, he said, "A captain cannot go wrong if he lays his ship alongside the nearest foe." Even when dying he remembered the situation of the ships and several times called out, "Anchor, Hardy, anchor." This referred to orders he had given before the action commenced to anchor the fleet after it was over because there was a gale coming on which would carry the ships upon the dangerous shoals of Trafalgar.

Some circumstances indicate that Nelson felt the approach of fate when he left the north to go in search of the French fleet. He had been waiting two years to get a chance to finish the business. Before setting out for the Mediterranean he arranged his private affairs, and it is said stopped in London to give orders about a coffin. The night before Trafalgar he wrote letters to Lady Hamilton and the daughter, Horatia. After he had given instructions to the captain of the frigates he parted with him saying, "I shall never speak to you again."

At daylight on the morning of the fight he was on deck dressed in his admiral's frock coat, with the stars of his four different orders of knighthood upon the breast. He had left his sword on the cabin table and did not wear it during the engagement. He was shot by a French sharpshooter from the Redoubtable when that ship was in the embrace of the English flagship, Victory. So went down Baron Nelson of the Nile.

GEORGE L. KILMER.

A Coincidence.

Coincidences happen frequently, but are always difficult of credence. Darwin, in his "Voyage of a Naturalist," mentions one of this kind, though different in degree. One of a party was speaking of the earthquake of Talcahuano, in northern Chile, where his father lost all his property, and he himself had barely escaped with his life in the earthquake at Valparaiso.

He mentioned a curious coincidence which then happened. A German, one of the party, got up and said he would never sit in a room in these countries with the door shut, as owing to his having done so he had nearly lost his life at Copingo. Accordingly he opened the door, and no sooner had he done this than he cried out, "Here it comes again!" and the famous shock commenced. The whole party escaped.

THE MODEL

I dropped into Danvers' studio one morning—I suppose it must have been two years ago—and found him painting on a classical study. He was doing neck and shoulder work at the time, and his model was a stranger to me. I sat smoking and watching him, or, to be candid, her, for half an hour. Then her time was up, and she left for dinner or something.

"Who is she, Danvers?"

"I believe she is engaged to an artist somewhere this side of the Pyrenees who is also relationless. He went blind a few months back. Her whole soul is wrapped up in him. She could think of no other means of making money, so she came over here, where she knows no one, and determined to be a model; only for certain work, you understand—a high class model. She has found one or two men like me to whom her services are valuable, and now she's as happy as a sandboy, with the thought of bringing her blind painter god over some time next month as her husband. He'll be the advising partner, I suppose, and she'll earn the money."

"Oh, well, she certainly is the"—

"Hush! Here she comes."

So I left then and started on my annual trip to the south next day.

Three months afterward I walked into Danvers' studio again and fairly gasped when I looked at his model. It was the same girl, and Danvers was at the same kind of work, but—well, she left the room for something after a bit, and I looked at Danvers.

"Is she in training for a pose as a dying ascetic? What in the world have you been doing with her, Danvers? What the deuce good can she be in your work now? God, man, the girl's dying!"

"Yes, I know," said Danvers, scrapping his palette savagely. "Beastly nuisance, isn't it? I don't know what the devil to make of it."

"Well, but what's the—I mean, how?"

"You remember the blind painter god chap?"

"Yes."

"Well, he fell into some beastly lake on the day before they were to have been married and was drowned. She's been getting a little bit more like—that, every day since. She doesn't sleep and she doesn't eat. She just does exactly what she's told. She's a lay figure, and of a skeleton at that. Best model I ever had too. Isn't it sickening?"

"Hm! And I don't suppose it's exactly cheerful for her."

"Well, of course. As a matter of fact, I'm beastly sorry for her. I rather like the girl, she's so pathetic. But what can a man do?"

"What she wants, old man, is simply a new interest of some kind. She's simply dying for want of some interest in living. That blind chap represented all the beauty in her life. He's gone. She must be made to see some other kind of beauty."

"Hm! And you think that would cure her?"

"Certain."

"Ah, well, I must get to work, old chap."

"Yes, Goodby."

Now, for a good time I dropped into Danvers' studio pretty nearly every day, and I'm not joking when I say I watched the rejuvenation of that girl—physically, anyhow. Then, just as I was getting interested, and—well, it was a weirdly beautiful process—I had to start on that wretched South American expedition.

That occupied almost a year. When I returned, I went out to St. John's Wood to look up Danvers.

Miss Retours—that was her name—was still there, and I found she never went into any other studio. She gravely excused herself from sitting for me, and as she did so she looked across at Danvers—great Scott! and he was whistling a vile thing from a pantomime. But she was in perfect health and a poem of southern European beauty. Only when she looked at me she didn't see me, only through me dreamily to Danvers. When she looked at him, her great, big, blue, forest eyes shone and glistened—a mixture of Madonna and Bacchante.

"How did you do it, Danvers?" I asked when she went out. "How did you give her the new interest?"

"Who? Adèle? Oh, bless you, she's been happy as possible for ever so long. Forgotten all about the blind chap, I fancy. In fact, I sometimes think she must be a bit sentimentally inclined about some other fellow."

Some other fellow! "Yes. How did you do it?"

"Let me see. Well, really I—I think I talked an awful lot of rot about poetry and art, and—oh, yes! I remember I painted a little ideal paradise for her—somewhere in the Mediterranean. I think it was. That she seemed to catch on to wonderfully. All talk, you know." All talk! And I, who might have done this thing, was fooling about in South America!

"Yes, it's evidently given her a new interest in life. I suppose it began about the time I went away—a year ago?"

"About then, I think. Anyhow, she's as right as possible now—a bit pensive at times, but plastic as wax, and lights up beautifully at a word. As a woman, I confess she rather bores me now, but she's a perfect model, my boy, an absolutely perfect model."

Yes! And I was in South America all that year.

Couldn't Keep It.

Magistrate—This is a very serious offense, biting a piece of a man's arm off; but as it is your first offense I will simply bind you over to keep the peace. Prisoner—I can't do it, your worship. I swallowed it.

Then, just as I was getting interested, and—well, it was a weirdly beautiful process—I had to start on that wretched South American expedition.

That occupied almost a year. When I returned, I went out to St. John's Wood to look up Danvers.

Miss Retours—that was her name—was still there, and I found she never went into any other studio. She gravely excused herself from sitting for me, and as she did so she looked across at Danvers—great Scott! and he was whistling a vile thing from a pantomime. But she was in perfect health and a poem of southern European beauty. Only when she looked at me she didn't see me, only through me dreamily to Danvers. When she looked at him, her great, big, blue, forest eyes shone and glistened—a mixture of Madonna and Bacchante.

"How did you do it, Danvers?" I asked when she went out. "How did you give her the new interest?"

"Who? Adèle? Oh, bless you, she's been happy as possible for ever so long. Forgotten all about the blind chap, I fancy. In fact, I sometimes think she must be a bit sentimentally inclined about some other fellow."

Some other fellow! "Yes. How did you do it?"

"Let me see. Well, really I—I think I talked an awful lot of rot about poetry and art, and—oh, yes! I remember I painted a little ideal paradise for her—somewhere in the Mediterranean. I think it was. That she seemed to catch on to wonderfully. All talk, you know." All talk! And I, who might have done this thing, was fooling about in South America!

"Yes, it's evidently given her a new interest in life. I suppose it began about the time I went away—a year ago?"

"About then, I think. Anyhow, she's as right as possible now—a bit pensive at times, but plastic as wax, and lights up beautifully at a word. As a woman, I confess she rather bores me now, but she's a perfect model, my boy, an absolutely perfect model."

Yes! And I was in South America all that year.

Couldn't Keep It.

Magistrate—This is a very serious offense, biting a piece of a man's arm off; but as it is your first offense I will simply bind you over to keep the peace. Prisoner—I can't do it, your worship. I swallowed it.

WRECK OF A BIG STORAGE HOUSE

COLLAPSE OF A JANESVILLE MACHINE CO. BUILDING.

It Was Overloaded with Stock, and a Section of Flooring in Three Stories Went Down with a Crash Yesterday Morning—Loss Will Be About $2,500.

Shortly before seven o'clock yesterday morning a call over the private wire of the Janesville Machine company was received at the fire stations and the department turned out in short order. When they arrived at the works they found there was no need of the fire department but that there would be plenty of work for a wrecking crew and a force of carpenters and masons.

It was found upon investigation that a section of the floor 32x90 in all, three stories had given away and dumped their loads of machinery, wheels and farming implements into the basement, entailing a loss estimated to be in the neighborhood of two thousand or twenty-five hundred dollars.

During the past summer the machine company has erected an immense brick storage warehouse extending from River street almost to Franklin street. On the west end is a section of the warehouse 48 by 90 which is practically divided from the main building on the east by a railroad side track. It was in this section that the accident occurred. The basement of the building is used as a paint shop for dipping castings and the other two floors for storing machines and supplies.

The first floor is supported by two rows of eighteen inch brick piers, twelve in number, sixteen feet apart. The row of piers sixteen feet east of the west foundation wall of the building, were not strong enough to bear the weight put upon them and crumbled away, allowing a section 32x90 to drop down into the basement.

The two floors above being deprived of their supports followed the first floor and hung down into the pit like two great Vs. The row of brick piers sixteen feet from the east wall held all right and that portion of the wall remained intact.

The piers were built upon a solid cement foundation but crumbled like so much lime. The roof was not badly injured when the supports were torn from under it and temporary supports are holding it in place. A large force of men are at work cutting the floors so they can be handled and taken out of the way.

Mr. Rathem, who did the brick work on the walls thinks it will be necessary to take out a small portion of the front wall where it is bulged out, and a portion of the rear wall where the large supporting beams and rods tore loose and made holes. The walls are all eighteen inches thick and their condition under the present circumstances shows that they are all right.

A large number of mowers and steel wheels piled up on the second floor were let down into the basement. The wheels are all right and the mowers not badly injured. It is hard to estimate the loss closely but it will be in the neighborhood of $2,500.

The supports under the main warehouse are 14x14 timbers and will sustain a much greater weight than brick piers.

THIEVES CARRY OFF STAMP COLLECTION

Frank H. Baack is looking for the parties that entered the basement to his new home some time last week and carried off a valuable stamp collection consisting of from thirty to forty thousand stamps, many of them worth a good price. He has an idea who took the stamps and expects to have them in the lock-up in a short time.

Mr. Baack's son Howard is interested in stamp collecting and had a fine collection. About two weeks ago Mr. George H. Erridge, who has gone to California to live, and was a great stamp collector, presented Mr. Baack with his large collection. Mr. Baack has his family goods stored in the basement of his new home on Court street and took the collection which was in a paper box up to his house and placed it in a large wooden box.

His son Howard examined the stamps one day last week and found them all right. On Friday last Mr. Baack had occasion to be at the house and thought he would see if the stamps were all right. He found that someone had been into the house and carried off the box containing the stamp collection. The stamps were valuable in themselves and were also prized on account of their being a gift from Mr. Erridge. The police are keeping close watch on certain parties and expect to get the stamps and see the parties punished.

Two Masterly Sermons. In spite of the fact that Rev. J. H. His evening sermon was especially fine, his subject "Dives and Lazarus; or What the Rich of Janesville Owe the Poor" giving him opportunity for some vivid word pictures and the drawing of some impressive lessons.

Later in the night the fire broke out again and a still alarm was sent in. The patrol wagon responded and this time succeeded in putting the blaze out. The cause of the fire is unknown but is supposed to have caught from the chimney of the room occupied by the hired man.

PLAY BUNCO GAME ON H. E. RANOUS

Fluffy-haired Woman Gets the Druggist to Give Her $25 on a Forged Order.

One of the most bar-faceted and successful bunco games ever worked in this city was played on H. E. Ranous, the druggist, this morning. Mr. Ranous is out $25 by the deal, but hopes to be able to run down the female who worked him so successfully.

This morning about nine o'clock a young woman of good medium height, with light fluffy hair, wearing a black hat and jacket and a blue skirt entered his drug store and presented a letter purported to be signed by Mrs. Charles L. Valentine, asking him to give the bearer $25 and that Mr. Valentine would hand it to him when he came down this evening.

The letter also stated that she could not reach the store by telephone as the linemen were repairing hers and also that her mother was not feeling well or she would come down herself.

Mr. Ranous read the letter and then asked the young woman when Mr. Valentine came home, as he knew that Mr. Valentine went north deer hunting a week ago. She seemed perfectly familiar with the family and said that Mr. Valentine did not like it up north and came home on Saturday night. She told such a straight story and seemed to be so well acquainted with the family that Mr. Ranous, not knowing Mrs. Valentine's signature and thinking it was all right, gave the young woman the money. She thanked him very kindly and said she had to go to Baumann Bros' after some groceries and left the store.

Mr. Ranous had no suspicions that he had been robbed and was much surprised about five minutes after the young woman had left to see Mrs. Valentine come into the store. It struck him at once as being very peculiar that Mrs. Valentine should state in her letter that her mother was sick and that she could not come down and then to have her come into the store. He showed her the letter and she at once pronounced it a forgery and said she had not given such an order.

Mr. Ranous then realized that he had been made the victim of a smooth game and at once notified the police who immediately started a search for the smooth young woman. It was but a few minutes from the time that Mr. Ranous discovered that he had been worked until the police were after her. No trace of her could be found and it seemed as if the earth had opened and swallowed her up. The police are of the opinion that she had a confederate working with her that was waiting near at hand with a horse and buggy to get her out of the way.

It was one of the smoothest games ever worked in this city and bids fair to be highly successful. On thing known was that Mr. Valentine made the drug store a stopping place when in town and was a close friend of Mr. Ranous. She also knew he was up north after deer and that he had not yet returned home, so that any story she might tell in regard to his whereabouts would not be disputed.

Mr. Ranous will probably know more about the parties the next time a letter of this character is presented to him.

ALLEGED THIEF LANDS IN JAIL

Under Sheriff Cochran Captures Charles J. W. Angellias—He Will Be Tried Here.

Under Sheriff Wallace Cochran arrived home this morning from Oregon, Ill., having in charge Charles J. W. Angellias, alias La Grellas, alias Le Rue, and landed him behind the bars in the Rock county jail, on the charge of horse and harness stealing.

Augrellas has already served two terms in the states prison for horse stealing, the last time he was sent up from Dane county in 1888 and was given four years. He was released in 1892 and immediately took up the trade he had been sent up for, and had followed for the last forty years.

Augrellas is seventy years of age and is one of the most notorious horse thieves out of prison. Under Sheriff Cochran has been after him all summer and a week ago narrowly escaped catching him near Rockford. It is known that during the summer that he has stolen at least eight sets of harness in the towns of Plymouth, Newark and Avon. It has been his practice to drive up into this county from Pine Creek, Ill., steal what he could and take it south into Illinois and what he could steal down there he would bring into this state. He would steal a harness and leave it with a farmer making some excuse why he wished to leave it and four or five weeks afterward would go and get it. In this way he would throw the officers off his track.

Under Sheriff Cochran found a gray horse down near Warren, Ill., that Augrellas left there some years ago and never called for. He also found where he had traded a fine bay mare weighing about 1,100 to a farmer for a horse he said was not worth over $5. The undersheriff lost no time in getting down to Oregon Saturday where he found the officers had his man in custody. He will be brought before Judge Fifield tomorrow morning.

MINERS FIGHT IN KENTUCKY

Bloodiest Battle of Mining Trouble in Webster County.

ONE KILLED AND FOUR HURT

Striking Coal Diggers Fight Guards and Nonunionists Near Madisonville—Concentrated Fire from the Brow of a Hill—Other Countlets.

Madisonville, Ky., Nov. 18.—The bloodiest battle of the mining trouble in this section was fought about 4:20 o'clock a. m. Following is the result of the conflict between the striking miners on one side and the guards, and nonunion men on the other: The dead: James Smith, striker. The injured: George Crouch, striker, fatally wounded; John West, guard, shot in leg; Hut Dawson, guard, shot in both hands; Nathan Bush, guard, shot in forearm. The battle occurred in Webster county at the mines of the Providence Coal Company, seventeen miles from Madisonville, commencing with an attack on the engine house of the works and the company's stables. The striking miners were about eighty strong, and when the shooting at the stables commenced the guards were aroused and commenced to return the fire.

Strikers then opened on homes of the nonunion employees, a concentrated fire from the brow of a hill being kept up on buildings occupied by the nonunion men and their families. Occupants kept close to the floors or the death list would have been larger.

The battle raged for an hour and a half.

Following the fatal battle there were riots at other Kentucky mines. An attack was made on the nine guards at the Monarch mines, three miles from here, but was repulsed. Two employees of the St. Bernard Coal Company at Morton's Gap were fired upon while driving in a buggy by a man who sprang from behind a tree. There was much trouble at other places, but neither injury nor loss of life. Owing to the day's battle and riots and the serious situation in the mining field of Webster and Hopkins counties the governor has ordered out the militia. The troops will leave for the scenes of trouble at midnight.

Eagle Tries to Steal Child.

Susquehanna, Pa., Nov. 18.—As Herman Swisher, aged 10, was playing with his sisters near Sherman an enormous eagle pounced upon them, throwing the girls to the ground. The bird fastened its claws into one of the arms and the face of the younger girl and attempted to carry her off. Herman ran into the house, got a carving knife, and, returning, slashed at the eagle's legs, nearly severing one of the feet. It released the girl and attacked the boy, badly lacerating him and tearing his clothing nearly off. The screams of the children attracted the mother, who grabbed a hatchet and bravely attacked the eagle. Joe Belger, a neighbor, returning from a hunt, shot the bird, which measured seven feet from tip to tip of wings.

Wu Ting Fang Vexed.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18.—Wu Ting Fang, the Chinese minister, is rather vexed over the notoriety given the young Chinese maidens who accompanied Mme. Wu from the Flower Kingdom, and who are now in Washington, and he wishes Washington society to consider them strictly as unofficial visitors, to whom Mme. Wu's guests must not pay homage or specially entertain them. He says they will take no part in the social life of the capital, are simply house guests, and will live in seclusion, with the exception of outings about the streets, when they will be accompanied by Mme. Wu.

$87,181,104 in Kansas Banks.

Topeka, Kan., Nov. 18.—State Bank Commissioner Albaugh is compiling one of the most remarkable statements ever given to the public. It shows that the combined deposits aggregate $87,181,104, or $59.28 for every man, woman, and child in the state. On May 31 last the combined deposits aggregated $68,481,887, or $46.57 per capita. This shows an increase of a little less than $20,000,000 during the drought season.

Galway Rioting Renewed.

Dublin, Nov. 18.—The election disturbances in Galway growing out of the campaign in which Horace Plunkett, Unionist, is opposing Colonel Arthur Lynch, who served with the Second Irish brigade on the Boer side in the South African war, have been renewed. A man was stabbed, and it is feared, fatally injured.

CANAL PACT SUITS BRITAIN.

English Government Awaits the Signing of the Treaty.

London, Nov. 18.—So far as the British government is concerned, all that remains to be done in connection with the isthmian canal is for Lord Pauncefoot and Secretary of State Hay to affix their signatures to the treaty. Such minor suggestions as ensued after the British ambassador's arrival at Washington have been disposed of and the foreign office awaits news of the signing of the convention, though it has not received any intimation as to when this is likely to take place. No draft of the treaty has been cabled here, for the reason that the document is safely locked away in the foreign office files where it has been since prior to Lord Pauncefoot's departure from this country. The ambassador was empowered to sign on behalf of Great Britain the first day he arrived in the United States, if such a course seemed to him advisable. He is acting with full power and the officials presume that he is only awaiting the convenience of the state department at Washington.

Spill on War Policy.

New York, Nov. 18.—Full confirmation of the rumors of cabinet dissensions already hinted at in previous dispatches have been received, cables the London correspondent of the Tribune. The protracted session of the cabinet has been a deep political mystery, for which neither the programme of the session nor the Mitylene affair supplied an adequate clue. What really happened was an onslaught on Sir Michael Hicks-Beach by nearly all of his associates. Mr. Balfour joined Mr. Chamberlain and Lord Salisbury and the Duke of Devonshire supported both in condemning the speech of the chancellor of the exchequer, which had sent down consols with a rush.

Brigands Are Worst.

Constantinople, Nov. 18.—Since the capture of Miss Ellen M. Stone, the American missionary, there has been great activity against brigands generally. A band under Aughel Popasso was overtaken yesterday near the Bulgarian frontier and in the fight which followed Popasso and four others were killed and the remainder of the band captured. A fight has also occurred between troops and brigands in Albania and several were killed on both sides.

Teachers Fighting Tax-dodgers.

Chicago, Nov. 18.—The real reason for the publication of the Teachers' Federation Bulletin, a new weekly started here, is said to be to give the teachers an organ wherewith to fight the tax-dodgers of the state and especially wealthy corporations in Chicago. The teachers have already scored substantial victories in this line and expect to compel owners of franchises to pay their full pro rata of taxes.

Depew to Wed Christmas.

New York, Nov. 18.—Senator Chauncey M. Depew has authorized the announcement that he would be married to Miss Palmer in Paris on Christmas day. "I am going to Charleston, S. C., to make an oration at the opening of the fair on December 1," he said, "then I am going to Washington to take my seat in the senate. I will remain in Washington until the senate adjourns for the holidays, which will be December 16."

Probable Changes in the Cabinet.

Washington, Nov. 18.—Gossip relative to probable cabinet changes are again rife. Report persistently has it that Secretary of State Hay will retire before two months to be succeeded by Secretary of War Root, and that Director of Census Merriam will be selected to fill the vacancy caused by the pending retirement of Secretary of Interior Hitchcock.

Revenue Cutter Missing.

Chatham, Mass., Nov. 18.—There is a feeling of uncertainty as to the whereabouts of the revenue cutter Seminole, which was last seen off New Orleans on Tuesday last. Just previous to this time the schooner Mark Pendleton had capsized in that vicinity.

Children Burn to Death.

Centalla, Ill., Nov. 18.—At Vernon two little children of Charles Bass were burned to death. When Mrs. Bass returned from a neighbor's and found the house burning she attempted to rescue them. She was fatally injured by burns received by this attempt.

Doctor Guilty of Murder.

Leon, Ia., Nov. 18.—Dr. J. H. Clifford, proprietor of the Clifford sanitarium of this place, was found guilty of murder in the second degree for being responsible for the death of Miss Maud Stone, a wealthy young woman who was an inmate of the institution.

Colonel W. H. Powell Dies.

Sackett's Harbor, N. Y., Nov. 18.—Col. William H. Powell, U. S. A., retired, died here. He entered the army as a private in 1861 and won his first commission the same year. He became colonel of the ninth infantry in 1897 and was retired at his request in 1899.

San Francisco, Nov. 18.—Among the passengers on the steamer China, which arrived from the Orient was former Queen Liliuokalani of Hawaii. She is on her way east for a protracted visit.

Convict Murderer Is Insane.

Joliet, Ill., Nov. 18.—Adam Goyer, the convict who murdered William Wood, another convict, in the penitentiary here last February, is now practically a maniac.

Her Fears Allayed.

Suddenly a pale, agitated woman appeared before the genial landlord. "Sir," she exclaimed, "there are strange noises in my room. I am afraid a burglar lies hidden in the closet." "Fie upon you, madam!" quoth the landlord merrily. "'Tis no burglar. 'Tis merely the spirit of a drummer who cut his throat in your room thirty years ago."

A Give Away.

"I have been interested in the woman suffrage movement," said Miss Passy proudly, "almost from its infancy."

"So she was led to the altar at last," remarked the girl in blue.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proved catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and cleanses the surface of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any cure that fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address: F. J. Cannot Bear Street Sounds.

Eleanora Duse, the famous Italian actress, is peculiarly nervous. When she is not at rehearsals or acting she spends her time in perfect rest. She receives no one except old friends, and only a few of these. She has a lady companion, who arranges her journeys and engages rooms in the hotels. This lady sees that Duse's rooms are at the back of the hotel and that, if possible, they look out on a garden; She cannot bear street sounds and sights.

AMONG THE THEATERS.

Mabel and Ethel Strickland, two of the most talented and accomplished young actresses of the day will be at the Myers Grand this evening presenting "For Love's Sake." Miss Mabel Strickland will appear as Anna Von Annerburg and she will be pleasantly remembered by the Janesville public for her clever work in that there will be a perfect rendition of the exacting role, goes without further saying. The production, superbly and most completely mounted, interpreted throughout by a company of superior worth and intelligence, and worthy of the attention of every theater goer of this place, will be seen at the Myers Grand on Thursday.

"Way Down East," Miss Ethel Strickland has for several years been winning her way to the front rank of leading actresses in the Frohman and other eastern companies. In "For Love's Sake" the Strickland sisters have found one of the strongest and best plays of the season and from their first appearance their tour has been a view of individual triumph and absolute success. The play wherever presented has been accorded the highest praise. There are indications of a big house.

Mr. Elmer Buffham, during the coming season to be seen in the role of "Tom Driscoll," the villain, in Shipman Brother's production of "Pudd'nhead Wilson," last season starred in the dual role of King Rudolph and Rudolph Rassendyll, in Shipman Bros. "Prisoner of Zenda." He has been especially engaged for this part and

POST SEASON GAME IS NOW DEMANDED

Only Wisconsin and Michigan in the West and Yale and Harvard in the East.

Saturday's football games made two things clear. One of them is that the championship will be settled when Yale meets Harvard in Cambridge. The other is that the championship of the west lies between Michigan and Wisconsin.

Yale's decisive defeat of its ancient and honorable rival will give the winner of the game at Cambridge a clear title to the leadership of the gridiron, for if Harvard wins it will be considered stronger than Princeton, of course, without playing the Tigers at all. The only thing that can leave the supremacy in doubt is a tie game.

Wisconsin's even more decisive disposition of Minnesota's aspirations and Michigan's triumph over Chicago leave only the Badgers and Wolverines in position to lay claim to first honors. Such claims will be disputed either way unless the football authorities of the two universities need the money which a post-season game in Chicago would realize and need it badly enough to overcome their dislike for post-season affairs.

If a game between the two great teams is not played there will be little upon which to base any comparison of the two great teams of the west. It will rest solely on what happens when Wisconsin plays Chicago at Marshall field, on Thanksgiving day. If the Badgers should roll up a much larger score than did the Wolverines they would claim everything and if a smaller score the Michigan fans would make the most of it. But the conditions might be so altogether different as to preclude any possibility of a comparison being made. Taking the work in last Saturday's games as a basis, it looks as if Yost's men would have a tremendous job on their hands to defeat Phil King's veterans.

BELOIT NEWS ITEMS.

Beloit, Wis., Nov. 18.—The City Federation of Women's Clubs will give another entertainment on New Year's day, 1902, similar to the "Trip Around the World" given last New Year's.

The electric lighting service of the city has been of a very inferior order the past two weeks owing to numerous breakages of machinery at the plant. The accidents have served to bring out many scathing remarks, anent the service although the electric company is hardly to blame.

James A. Dennison and George Soultman of Janesville have been in Beloit for a week organizing a court of the Tribe of Ben Hur and are meeting with success.

Rev. Father Ward, the well known pastor of St. Thomas' church, walked through the plate glass door in George Cram's shoe store, the other day, thinking the door was open. His clothes were cut up considerably by the falling glass, but fortunately no wounds of any consequence resulted.

George E. Hooker, editor of the Chicago Tribune, addressed the members of the college history club Wednesday evening on the subject of "The Civic Influence of Journalism." His remarks were very instructive.

The Catholic Aid society has been conducting a bazaar in Odd Fellows' hall each evening the past week, which, both in point of attendance and entertaining features is the best ever given by the ladies.

At the meeting of the 'Six O'clock club' Tuesday evening the subject of "Street Improvement" was the topic for discussion and practical suggestions were offered by Messrs. J. M. Whitehead, Rev. W. F. Brown, Dr.

Nov. 21. There has been no expense spared to make this comedy the dramatic event of the year, and the greatest capacity of the house should be taxed to its utmost upon the occasion of its presentation here.

Some of the last season's favorites and many new ones will be found in this season's roster of William H. West's Big Minstrel Jubilee. Billy Van still remains the bright particular star. He is assisted in his fun-making by several popular burnt cork comedians, principal among whom are McMahon & King and N. S. Carr. Van promises us a brand new monologue, which is credited with being quite the funniest thing this comedian has done. The entire program is said to possess more comedy features than have been seen with a minstrel show in the past dozen years. They will appear at the Myers Grand next Saturday evening.

Isaac Buckenridge, Dr. A. C. Helm, Hon. Clinton Babbitt, T. D. Woolsey, E. J. Adams, Mayor Simon Smith, and C. B. Salmon. The committee appointed for the next meeting one month hence is L. H. Parker, F. E. Converse and Cham. Ingersoll.

BALL MAGNATES ARE IN A TANGLE

Blister Fight Between the American and National Leagues—Milwaukee Franchise in Doubt.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 18.—The winter season is at hand, but does not prevent the baseball magnates from doing business just the same. The National League men have been holding conferences in a round-about way and preparing a plan of action for next season. It will be fully discussed at the annual meeting of the league next month. While the National League people are laying their plans the American League magnates are going ahead with the expansion policy, as outlined early in the fall. There is no doubt that the president of the league, Ban Johnson, would like to invade New York, but the chances are that the American league will go another year without Greater New York being included. In the circuit, John J. McGraw has come out with a statement that Baltimore will remain, and it is not probable that Washington would be dropped. As to the western end of the circuit there seems to be much uncertainty at the present time.

Announcements have been made many times that the Milwaukee club would be transferred to St. Louis, but the owners of the club, Messrs. Killilea and Gross, have yet to substantiate the announcement credited to President Johnson. Mr. Killilea does not deny that he has set a price upon the club, but he does deny that the deal has been completed. Even this morning Henry Killilea stated that the deal had not been consummated and he certainly must know what is going on in the American League camp. Ban Johnson announces that the American League will surely go into St. Louis, and so the inference is that the club to be transferred will be either Milwaukee or Cleveland.

There has been nothing said about Cleveland being shifted, but there is no certainty that the Ohio town will remain in the league. It is known that if President Killfoyle and his associates could get their price they would not hesitate to sell; therefore it is only reasonable to expect that there must be some chance of Cleveland being transferred. The fate of Milwaukee will be known within two weeks, as the matter will no doubt be settled before the meeting to be held in December.

One thing is certain—if the Brewers remain in Milwaukee the local management will never be able to retain the five stars secured from St. Louis, unless they desire to go in the hole from the jump, as it would take 80,000 paid admissions to pay the salaries of the stars alone, providing the salaries announced some time ago are correct. Should the Brewers remain here it is likely that the local management would retain two or three of the stars for the infield and transfer the balance to some of the other clubs. That seems the only feasible way in which to meet the issue, providing of course that Cleveland should be the city to shift instead of Milwaukee.

ROBBERS WRECK A TRAIN.

Lay Explosive on the Northern Central Tracks Near York, Pa.

York, Pa., Nov. 18.—The southwest-ern express on the Northern Central railway, due in this city at 10:40 p. m., was wrecked by a charge of dynamite placed under the tracks near Black Ridge, a short distance north of York. The train was running at the rate of forty-five miles an hour when the explosion occurred. Passengers on the train were severely shocked and consternation prevailed. All escaped injury. A piece of rail two and a half feet long was blown out of the track and three coaches were derailed and thrown over the ties a distance of 200 feet before the train was brought to a stop. It is believed that the object of the perpetrators was robbery. The police officials advance the theory that robbers had set the dynamite for the Buffalo express, which is said to carry considerable money, but for some unaccountable reason the train passed over the charge without exploding it. A hole was blown in the roadbed large enough to bury a man.

Will Discuss Reciprocity.

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 18.—The first session of the national reciprocity convention will be held here Tuesday in the banquet hall of the Hotel Raleigh. All discussion will be limited to the subject of reciprocity. The meeting will continue through Wednesday and Thursday or such parts of those days as may be necessary to transact the business before the convention.

Weavers Are Angry.

Fall River, Mass., Nov. 18.—The Weavers' Protective Union has to withdraw from the Textile Council, as a direct result of the failure of the council to declare a strike when the mills refused to meet M. C. D. Boden's increase of 10 per cent in wages. The weavers are 3,000 strong, with a bank account of $50,000.

Rangers to Fight Bandits.

Phoenix, Ariz., Nov. 18.—The Arizona Rangers, under command of Burt Grover Thursday received commissions from Mexican officers, with the privilege of chasing and capturing bandits on either side of the international line.

Mary E. Wilkins Said to Be Married. Metuchen, N. H., Nov. 18.—Dr. Charles Manning Freeman refuses to announce it, and so does Miss Mary E. Wilkins, the noted novelist, but the residents of this place insist that they have been recently married.

Fire Sweeps Through Church. Muncie, Ind., Nov. 18.—The interior of the Friends' church was almost gutted by fire from an overheated stove. District school building No. 5 was destroyed by fire today. Both losses are covered by insurance.

Two Killed by Explosion.

Columbus, O., Nov. 18.—Two men were killed and four injured as the result of the premature explosion of a blast at the Casparis stone quarry northwest of Columbus. The dead: A. M. Vaeel, John M. Antonio. The injured: Peter Montrose, Carmine Della, Frank Wilson, C. C. Thorne. The two men killed were working under a ledge and were buried under tons of rock. Thorne, the foreman, was hurled thirty-five feet in the air, but his injuries are not serious. Wilson will probably die.

Mayor Treats Loose Job.

Ottawa, Ont., Nov. 18.—Mayor Morris was fined $5 and $2 costs in the police court for treating friends during prohibited hours. Under the license act the mayor is now disqualified from holding office for two years. He has already notified the city clerk that he is no longer mayor and the city council will elect a mayor from among its members Monday evening.

Sleeplessness marks the very climax of human suffering. It is only a step removed from insanity. When sleep no longer restores the exhausted nature, the struggle with disease cannot last long. The starting point of the nervous disorders which produce ill-health and sleeplessness, is generally a diseased condition of the womanly organs. Restore these organs to sound health and the appetite comes back, the day's work no longer wearies, and sleep is sound and refreshing. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures diseases of the womanly organs. It stops the drains which weaken women; it heals the inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness.

There is no alcohol in "Favorite Prescription" and it is entirely free from opium, cocaine and all other narcotics. It is a temperance medicine.

"My health has been poor for many years and I had taken a great deal of medicine, but it did me no good," writes Mrs. Rose Kennedy, of Springfield, Adams Co., Wis. "Last August my health was very poor; I had no appetite and could not sleep. I wrote to Dr. Pierce and he kindly advised me to take his 'Favorite Prescription.' I took five bottles of the 'Prescription' and one bottle of the 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and I feel like a new woman."

A Lively Princess.

The liveliest and, the English people think, the prettiest princess in Europe is Princess Maud, youngest daughter of the king, and now Princess Charles of Denmark. The Coming Country Boy.

The life in the country is being more and more appreciated and the income is sure. The young educated farmer is the coming man. Irrigation and forestry are bound to reclaim what is now arid land for the use of the farmer, and the broad prairies of the country will continue to invite the best young men to a calling more desirable and remunerative than pushing pens and pencils in the glare of a gas jet.

About the Rothschilds.

Lord Rothschild is, of course, now the head of the famous banking family and its most wealthy member. He is more solemn and reserved than his brother Leopold, but the two are much attached to each other and they have multifarious interests in common, especially their love of sport. There is a legend that Lord Rothschild once discovered that he had been giving an annual donation to the Society for the Conversion of the Hebrews through a clerical blunder on the part of one of his busy almoners.

Ink Stains on Wood.

Kentuckienne says: "If an ink stain gets upon a mahogany writing desk you can remove it with a few drops of spirits of nitro in a spoonful of water. Put a little on the ink and rub it at once with a cloth wet in water, or it will make a white spot. To clean an old mahogany dining table wash it off with a soft clean flannel and a tepid suds made of a pure mild soap; then on a thick flannel wad pour melted wax until there is a good wax surface. When cold and hard, rub the table, following the grain, until it looks like a mirror."
